Staff

The Institute of Cancer Research, London, employed 1,121 staff at the beginning of the 2020/21 academic year.

The ICR is based at two locations in London – at Sutton and Chelsea. Around 64 per cent of staff work in Sutton and 35 per cent in Chelsea, with 1% not site based.

In 2019/20 we employed 32 scientific officers – technical staff who support research activities and work primarily in laboratories.

Almost 72 per cent of staff members were employed in research and 28 per cent were employed in professional services.

Leadership Team

The ICR's leadership team consists of Professor Kristian Helin, Chief Executive and President, Gordon Stewart, Chief Operating Officer, and Professor Clare Isacke, Dean of Academic and Research Affairs.

We employed 24 clinical academic staff, who, as medically trained professionals, combine research with clinical duties.

Some 58 per cent of staff at the The Institute of Cancer Research (ICR) are female, and 42 per cent male. We are a diverse organisation, with 31 per cent of

In 2020/21, we employed 62 scientific academic staff, comprising academic and staff scientist roles. Of these, 32 were Team Leaders.

Specialist staff – including bioinformaticians, statisticians and epidemiologists – accounted for around 27 staff, working across research divisions.
